

My Fellow Minnesotan,

6 years. I am Tom Weiler and I am running to be your Senator for the next 6 years. What were you doing and how did you feel about Minnesota and our elected leaders 6 years ago? On February 1, 2020, the first case of COVID had recently been reported in the United States, George Floyd was simply George Floyd, a 30-year mortgage rate was 3.45%, and funding the police and the existence of 2 biological sexes were a given. No one outside of Minnesota knew Tim Walz, Minnesotans thought their tax dollars were safe, and violent riots in Minneapolis were as common as Viking Super Bowl victories. I was deployed onboard the USS EISENHOWER aircraft carrier enroute to the Middle East as tensions were rising following the strikes that killed Iranian terrorist Qasem Soleimani.

Could a principled, moral leader, experienced in solving complex problems and asking hard questions focused on safety, security, and accountability, have made a significant difference for Minnesotans and Americans over the last 6 years?

I believe the answer is yes. This is why I am running to represent you in the United States Senate for the next 6-year term. I will go to Washington, D.C. on behalf of you and every Minnesotan to solve problems, not create them, to develop good policy that benefits Minnesotans, and to champion your voice and concerns in the United States Senate.

A lot happens in 6 years, much of which we never see coming. The Senator we elect this year will be voting in 2033 on issues we have never even heard about today. This 6-year agreement is a significant commitment between us – that is why I believe authenticity, trust and honesty are so critical. As I work to earn your support and vote over the next 275 days, you will always hear truth, not narratives or canned talking points written by staff members. I am running my campaign singularly focused on winning November 3, 2026, because winning November 3rd is the only way to affect real change we so desperately need. This straightforward, pragmatic approach might make me a bad politician, but I believe it will make me an excellent Senator worthy of your support.

As a nuclear trained Navy Submariner, we constantly work in complex, integrated environments, often with competing tasks and priorities. To help guide our decision making, submariners always clearly identify and rely on governing orders and guidance. This approach translates well to simplifying the job of a United States Senator. The Constitutions of the United States and Minnesota provide clear guidance on governing and legislating. Government exists to “establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general Welfare,” and for the “benefit and protection of the people.” The number one responsibility of our federal government is to provide for the safety and security of every American citizen and his or her property. Safety and security are the foundation upon which the American Dream is built. National security will always be my top priority, so it never has to be your top concern.

There are many good candidates running to represent you, and while I respect their efforts, I am confident that my work ethic, honesty, and principled character set me apart. My experiences, expertise, and education in national security operations, public policy, budgeting & resourcing, and energy production, combined with leadership and problem-solving acumen, which was forged and tested leading teams and submarines crews in the most unforgiving environments on earth, uniquely positions me to best serve you and all Minnesotans.

I love Minnesota, I love our country, and I believe Minnesotans deserve much more from our elected leaders. I will serve. I will lead. I will constantly strive to guide our state and our country forward in peace, strength and prosperity. I will help Chart a New Course for Minnesota to once again be The Star of the North.

For America, For Minnesota,

Tom
